Reds Bar U. S. In Manchuria

By SPENCER DAVIS

CHANGCHUN, Manchuria, March 5 (Delayed) (AP)—This is Russia's back yard at the moment. "We don't want those with gold in their pocket to come in and handicap our friendship with China," the Soviet commandant of Manchuria was quoted as proclaiming. The commandant, Marshal Rodion Malinovsky, was "too busy" to see the

Churchill Pays Tribute To Gen. Ike

RICHMOND, Va., March 8 (AP)—Winston Churchill, cautioning that peace cannot be preserved by casting aside "the panoply of wartime strength," and again called today upon Britons and Americans to stand together.

In an address to a joint session of Virginia's Legislature, Britain's wartime premier departed from his prepared address to pay special tribute to Gen. Eisenhower for his work in aiding the Allied troops into a force which fought "as soldiers of a single nation."

He did not mention directly his recent appeal for an Anglo-American military alliance. But he drew a sustained burst of applause when he cried out:

"We should stand together in malice to none, in greed for nothing, but in defense of those causes we hold dear."

"Above all, among the English-speaking peoples, there must be the union of hearts based upon conviction and common ideals."

"That is what I offer."

"That is what I seek."

Gen. Eisenhower, urged to speak, said:

"Of all the things that supported me in the years of the war, none other was so inspiring as the courage and indomitable support of the prime minister of Great Britain."

Soviet Papers Print Comment on Churchill

MOSCOW, March 8 (AP)—Soviet newspapers today published a Tass dispatch from New York giving the Russian people their first accounts of Winston Churchill's speech Tuesday at Fulton, Mo., at which the former British prime minister called for British-American co-operation.

Tass said Churchill delivered the speech "in an extremely aggressive tone."

"In particular," the news agency said, "Churchill demands the creation of an Anglo-American military alliance opposed to the Soviet Union."

reaching Changchun unwittingly—who sought to confirm such statements.

He made his declaration at a recent banquet, reliable sources said, and added if any hand of interference were thrust between Russia and China, "the Red army will cut it off."

The Red army controls Changchun, as it does Manchuria's other major cities; and China is represented only by a military mission and civilian officials.

Most Changchun shops are boarded up. Civilians leave the streets by 4 p. m. for fear of being accosted by soldiers. This applies to 350 to 400 Chinese officials sent by the Chungking government to control Manchurian affairs. Their work has been at a standstill for two months.

Provincial administrators have been unable to carry out their duties pending agreement between Russia and China on economic collaboration in this once rich land of industry and agriculture.

Since the fatal stabbing of seven Chinese mining officials on return from the Fushun collieries in January, there has been no further attempt to take over coal mines. The Soviets said they would be unable to guarantee protection of the officials. This same lack of assurance for safety kept officials from proceeding to Dairen. Only a few reached Harbin.

We nine correspondents took off for Peiping yesterday, escorted by two Russian fighter planes. Engine trouble forced the plane back. A protest was filed by Red army headquarters for a supposed infraction of orders in carrying us. Inasmuch as four Russians without passports were on the plane, the protest hardly was valid.

We were greeted frigidly on arrival from Mukden Feb. 25 and interned in a hotel two days and six hours. Then we were freed but not to write about Red organizations, nor were we to proceed farther north.

Truman Names R.R. Strike Board

WASHINGTON, March 8 (INS)—President Truman appointed today an emergency board to head off a threatened national railroad strike set for 6 a. m. Monday and at the same time declared he would not intervene in the General Motors walkout.

Under the Railway Labor Act, appointment of the panel forestalls strike action for 30 to 60 days.

Members are Lief Ericson, former Montana Supreme Court judge; N. Y. Atty. Frank Swackhamer and Gordon S. Watkins of the economics department, University of California.

Mr. Truman reiterated his opinion the General Motors strike should be settled on the basis of the 19½-cent hour wage increase recommended by a presidential fact-finding board.

Card. Glennon's Condition Grave

DUBLIN, March 8 (AP)—John Cardinal Glennon has fallen into a semicomatose state, his secretary, Msgr. John P. Cody, said tonight.

Msgr. Cody, chancellor of the St. Louis diocese, said the cardinal's condition "is not so good this evening as earlier" in the day when it was announced he had developed uremia and exhibited mental confusion.

"His condition is not satisfactory," Cody said. "There is nothing urgent as far as we can see, but anything can be expected."

President In Lively Press Quiz

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—President Truman emphatically renewed his support of the United Nations Organization today and left to the indefinite future any expression of views on Winston Churchill's proposal of a virtual Anglo-American military alliance.

In a typically fast-moving news conference, replying to frequent questions, Mr. Truman:

Asserted the UNO would not be allowed to collapse.

Expressed confidence Russia would go along with the UNO.

Said Churchill was indulging in the right of free speech when he proposed joint use of British and American military bases and extension of the U. S.-Canadian defense agreement to the other British commonwealths.

Replied, when asked what might happen if Russia declines to comply with U. S. request for immediate withdrawal of Soviet troops from Iran, that the situation will be handled when it comes up.

Made it clear J. A. Krug would take over all duties formerly exercised by Harold Ickes when Krug becomes Secretary of the Interior March 15.

Said Secy. Byrnes is not considering retiring and that Postmaster General Hannegan is not planning to quit as Democratic national chairman.

Stated the combined Anglo-American chiefs of staff would continue to function until the declaration of the end of the war emergency.

Declared he knew of no plans in the immediate future for a "Big 3" meeting; that Gen. George C. Marshall, special ambassador to China, will return soon for consultations with him, then return to Chungking as special envoy; that he hopes to visit the UNO council meeting in New York late this month to welcome the delegates, if he can arrange his schedule.

JOAN CRAWFORD AND DIRECTOR MIKE CURTIZ
Associated Press Wirephoto

"OSCAR" WINNERS — Ray Milland (above) and Joan Crawford have been awarded "Oscars" for best performances in 1945. He won the award for role in "Lost Weekend" and she took top honor for portrayal of the spurned mother in "Mildred Pierce." Director Mike Curtiz (at left) gives statuette to Joan in her home where she is ill with influenza.

Given 'Oscar' at Home, Joan Crawford Weeps

HOLLYWOOD, March 8 (AP)—Ray Milland lost a week-end, and Joan Crawford lost the biggest evening of her life. But both won Oscars in the process. They were the best performances of an actor and actress in 1945. The scene was Grauman's Chinese theater, the audience 2100 high stiff shirts and low evening gowns garbing Hollywood's elite. Thousands of others jammed the boulevard outside.

But the real drama took place eight miles away, in a Brentwood bedroom. There Miss Crawford, whose unsung aid to the forgotten and needy of filmdom has made her a popular character in a make-believe world, danced around a sickbed.

An attack of influenza had robbed her of the moment of glory of which every actress dreams—stepping up to receive her Oscar. But friends, headed by Director Mike Curtiz who accepted the award in her behalf at the theater, decided that even a temperature of 102 shouldn't cost her all of the thrill that goes with winning the highest honor Hollywood's thousands of workers—from grips to executive producers—can bestow.

So they went to her Brentwood home and there, while Joan sniffled and cried, handed her the statuette.

"Usually," she choked, a little ruefully, "I'm ready for the wis-cracks. But I can't say anything. My tears speak for me."

She won the award for her portrayal of the spurned mother in "Mildred Pierce."

The 18th annual party was a night for veterans. Milland, Welsh-born, has been in Hollywood 13 years. And his performance as the pitiful drunk of "The Lost Weekend" sparked that picture to one of the greatest sweeps since "It Happened One Night" hit the screen in 1934.

For Paramount, "Weekend" won the selection as the best picture. For Billy Wilder it won the directorial award and a share of the palm for the best written screenplay with Charles Brackett.

Other major awards went to James Dunn for his superb job as the father in "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn"—also a drunken role—and to the one comparative newcomer to films, Anne Revere—who also played a mother—in "National Velvet." They were chosen for the best supporting performances of the year.

To Peggy Ann Garner went a special award as the most promising child actress.

Charlestown PO Robbed of $10

Thieves, who gained entry by jimmying a roof skylight, broke into the Charlestown postoffice in Main st. during the night and stole $10 in cash and stamps and bonds of unknown value from the desk of Supt. Joseph Ryan.

The break was discovered by Vincenzo Scalesse, mail handler, when he reported for work. He notified police.

Postal Insp. Arthur E. Kelleher said there had been no tampering with the safes and other compartments which ordinarily hold a large quantity of stamps and cash.

Police said the job probably was the work of boys.

St. Mark's Teacher Ends Own Life

SOUTHBORO, March 8—With the thoroughness that marked his life as a teacher, Albert J. Hill, 59, popular instructor at St. Mark's School, carefully planned to end his life for several days. It was disclosed today by Police Chief James E. Griffin.

Medical Examiner Walter F. Mahoney, who ruled the educator's death a suicide, pictured him as a moody and lonely person.

Hill, who has a sister in his home town of Medina, N. Y., made his will a week ago and for several days before his carbon monoxide death at the school garage had systematically cleaned up his affairs. He packed his belongings neatly, returned all borrowed books and left his will where it would be easily found.

Hill's body was found in his automobile, which had been rigged so fumes would be carried through a hose from the exhaust into the back of the machine. He had locked the garage and stuffed blankets around the doors to make them airtight.

Discovery of his body came as a result of a note, mailed the previous night, which was received by a fellow instructor, Walter Badger, formerly of Boston. The victim had dined with Badger and his wife about six hours before he took his life.

The note, which thanked the Badgers for their kindness, contained this phrase: "When you read this I will be far away." Officials of the school began an immediate check, went to see if the instructor's machine was gone and thus made the discovery.

Last to see Hill alive was the school watchman who saw him on the grounds shortly after midnight. He caught him in the beam of his flashlight and immediately apologized.

"There's no need to apologize," Hill replied. "This only shows that you are doing your job well."

Baby Found On Doorstep In Lawrence

LAWRENCE, March 8—A distraught mother, who acted with full realization her punishment will be unending grief, today abandoned her baby daughter at the door of a funeral home with a pitiful prayer she be adopted and given the good things of life. In a lengthy note, the mother asked above all the child be given love. She said the baby's father now is dead. She condemned herself but said she felt it was the only way.

The letter was misspelled in several places, but police believe it was written by a well-educated woman and the errors were made purposely to throw police off. The letter was as follows:

"I no ill will regret this all of my life. But I want the best for her and I no I couldn't give her. Her daddy's dead. I couldn't do it alone now. She is of sound mind and good health and good blood in her. Please see that someone nice that loves babies and are lovin people and will adopt her & be kind to her and love her all her life. My punishment will be to remember her and what I did. But I no its for the best. Thank You."

A postscript gave the formula of the infant's feed and also this addition:

"Please name her Francis. I baptized her that with holy water." Here again investigators are certain the mother purposely misspelled Francis.

But Baby Frances knew nothing of all this today at Lawrence Memorial Hospital while police sought through check on hospitals and doctors to learn the identity of the mother.

Mrs. Raymond Keefe was awakened early today by the continuous ringing of the night bell at the Keefe funeral parlor which adjoins their home on Salem st. She hurried downstairs expecting to find trouble, the kind that is usual when an undertaker's bell is rung during early morning hours.

Instead, she found a warmly blanketed baby in an ordinary market basket.

Mrs. Keefe called police and baby Frances soon was at the hospital. Doctors said the child was about a week old and in excellent health.

Sgt. Insp. Patrick J. McKenna was blocked in his first attempts to trace the mother. The letter had been handled by half a dozen persons. The nursing bottle that came with the baby had been sterilized in hot water at the hospital. There were no fingerprints for Sgt. McKenna. Footprints were taken of the baby.

A score of doctors in the Lawrence area arrived at the hospital this afternoon after a call was issued by police. They viewed the youngster, but none remembered such a baby. At the same time, Policewoman Beatrice V. Clarke asked everyone in this district to check on babies expected within the last 10 days. They were asked to furnish names of expectant mothers.

Little Frances hasn't cried once since Mrs. Keefe picked her up and carried her from the cold. Doctors say the infant is going to be a blue-eyed blonde, and a chubby one at that.

The child was warmly clad and wrapped in three blankets, two edged in blue and one in pink.

Meanwhile, the telephone at Lawrence Memorial Hospital already is beginning to ring. There are lots of folks who want to know about Frances and about adoption. But police have a lot of investigating to do first.

They think that the mother may have a change of heart.

Three Nationalities Seeking To Dominate Venezia Giulia

Doris Duke, famed American heiress who has been writing her observations of current events and personalities in Europe, recently completed a tour of the much-contested Venezia Giulia border area between Italy and Yugoslavia. In the following special article, she describes the historic and economic reasons motivating the various nationalities contending there.

By DORIS DUKE

PARIS, March 8 (INS)—Venezia Giulia—on the surface the world's one and only peaceful hot spot—in reality is being subjected to a continuous three-way tug of war. This contest threatens to break into open conflict should Allied occupation cease before a boundary agreement is reached. The territory in question is no bigger than the state of New Jersey. But throughout the centuries it has been the meeting ground of three nationalities—the Latin, the Slav, and the Germanic.

At present, the fictitious military line—known as the Morgan Line, running from Austria to slightly east of the port city of Trieste—momentarily has postponed any international showdown. But it has deepened the cleavage and passions of inhabitants of Venezia Giulia.

Outwardly, the Allied Boundary Commission, appointed to settle the problem, will detect little. But, if one stops and talks to ten people, one gets ten different versions of the origin of the problem and ten different suggested solutions.

Still, there is one single, underlying current which may prove the basis for unification of all these people: They all want to eat.

As they await solution or showdown, they can objectively be classified as:

1—Slovenes. They are by all odds the most powerful group. To the Allied authorities who are determined to remain neutral, their passive resistance has been continuously irksome. In some Slovene villages telephone wires have been cut, and now and again caches of arms and ammunition have been found.

2—Germanic, or Austrian, elements. Only the older people who live in the larger cities and remember the Austro-Hungarian empire have been outspokenly in favor of restoration of the empire. These people point out, with no little success, that prior to the Fascist administration Trieste was the greatest shipping port in middle Europe and the only southern sea outlet for Austria, Germany, Hungary and Czechoslovakia.

3—Italians. They, perhaps, are the most in need of help. They are confused and nationally divided.

The Italian government seems to have done very little to combat this trend.

Tito, on the other hand, has been wooing Italians in an effort to win their support for placing Venezia Giulia under Yugoslav sovereignty. Numerous Italians receive regular rations of food, sugar and coffee from Tito's agents.

Non-sympathizing Italians in the Yugoslav zone are, of course, branded as Fascists and there are innumerable stories of concentration camps, abductions, bodily punishment and the like.

Above the masses stand Italian industrialists who owned and operated practically all industrial establishments in the area.

These industrialists are extremely reticent about investing capital to repair war-damaged factories. They are worried that a change in government may mean a total loss not only of what the war left of their holdings, but of whatever they put into them.

These Days Why Do We Meddle?

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1946, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

TWO GENERAL POLICIES have usually guided the foreign relations of the United States:

1—That it is not the policy of this country to intervene in the internal affairs of another:

2—That no other country may impair the territorial and administrative integrity of another country with our consent.

Like other phases of the historic American foreign policy, these principles have often been ignored or even violated by ignorant and incompetent Presidents and Secretaries of State, but rarely to our advantage and usually to the damage of those whose friendships we treasure.

Intervention is a hostile act because, as Hall's "International Law" so clearly states, "it constitutes an attack upon the independence of the state subjected to it."

Were I an Argentine, I should have voted for Peron, under any circumstances and no matter what my personal sentiments might have been, because a foreign country intervened in the internal affairs of my country and therefore attacked its independence.

Were I a Spaniard, I should today support Franco to the hilt for the same reason.

THE QUARREL between the United States and the Argentine seems to be without foundation: nothing that the new Titan of diplomacy, sprung out of Chilean mines, Spruille Braden, has said about Argentina does not apply even more fully to Soviet Russia.

The effective factors in the argument, the electors of the Argentine, are giving the ebullient and quixotic Braden the grand heave-ho.

As for Franco's Spain, the contention seems to be that we are ideologically different and that Franco once courted Hitler, as also Stalin once did.

In its younger and smarter days, before the new wisdom sprouted in Washington, as far back as 1797, a treaty was signed between the United States and Tripoli containing the following:

"As the government of the United States of America is not in any sense founded on the Christian religion; as it has in itself no character of enmity against the laws, religion or tranquility of Musselmans, and as the said States never have entered into any way or act of hostility against any Mahometan nation, it is declared by the parties that no pretext arising from religious opinions shall ever produce an interruption of the harmony existing between the two countries."

Generally speaking, this has been American policy from that date to 1914, with certain astonishing exceptions.

In 1917, of course, this country intervened to make the world safe for democracy; this country has ever since been carrying the full load of the economic and political disaster that has befallen Europe.

John Adams, in his diary, reports:

"You are afraid," says Mr.

Oswald today, 'of being made the tools of the powers of Europe.' 'Indeed I am,' says I. 'What powers?' said he. 'All of them,' said I. 'It is obvious that all the powers of Europe will be continually maneuvering with us to work us into their real or imaginary balances of power. They will all wish to make of us a make-weight candle . . . but I think it ought to be our rule not to meddle . . .'"

And that precisely is what is now happening to us in Spain. Soviet Russia desires civil war in Spain.

The Communists are the dominant political party in France. The French government, to keep the Communists from throwing it out as they forced De Gaulle out, pursues a policy toward Spain satisfactory to Soviet Russia.

The United States, having groveled in the dust and eaten crow to please the despot of the Kremlin and to save the face of Franklin D. Roosevelt, is about to revise its attitude toward Russian aggressions, thefts, espionage and general immorality, so that it sounds tough to the American people but is normal Byrnes in reality.

It is therefore willing to knock Franco down because—"what the hell!"

SO, WE INTERVENE in Spain by stimulating civil war. But in Manchuria the United States goes back to the "open door policy" of John Hay and to the moral principles of the Nine-Power Treaty and to the Hoover-Stimson non-recognition policy—all sound if the intent exists to make good on the verbal ejaculation.

Non-intervention implies decent forbearance; "the open door policy" involves moral indignation. Both are American.

Woman Gets Mercy in Gem Thefts, Pledges Aid to Cops

On the promise of Ruth Rosenthal, 42, of East 8th st., New York, that she would co-operate with New York police and furnish details of a long list of jewel thefts in which she admitted she was involved, Judge Elias Shamoa placed her case on file today in municipal court.

She had been arraigned on a charge of larceny of a $1900 diamond-mounted necklace from the shop of an Arlington st., Back Bay, jeweler.

She already had waived extradition to New York when arraigned yesterday in Roxbury court, charged with larceny of $1004 worth of earrings and other jewelry in that city. The gems were found in her hotel room.

She was arrested after store detectives, watching her through peepholes, saw her pick up the necklace and place it in a receptacle inside her dress.

When her case was called today, a long bench conference was held, with representatives of the Jewelers' Protective Ass'n, New York detectives and her counsel, Atty. Joseph M. McDonough, taking part.

Judge Shamoa turned to her and said:

"I understand you have been connected with a group involved in a number of jewelry thefts?"

"Yes," she answered, prompted by Atty. McDonough.

"And you will co-operate with New York officials and give them a detailed list of these robberies and information on them?"

"Yes."

"As long as you have agreed to co-operate, I'll place this case on file. If you don't, we'll get you back here and you'll get a stiff sentence."

Police then took her to Roxbury court to complete details for her return to New York.

WINS DECREE—Mrs. Jennie Ferrari of Chelsea won an uncontested divorce after she charged her husband, Albert, with cruel and abusive treatment today in Suffolk Probate Court. She testified he knocked her down when she suggested that he should get a job.

Note Key To Shiloh Death Duel

AUGUSTA, Me., March 8 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Ralph W. Farris said today investigation of a double shooting Feb. 19 at a Durham religious sect headquarters "shows definitely" Irene Laprise, 29, Brunswick World War veteran and one of the two killed, "was trying to get the Kingdom, Inc., Temple at Shiloh for veterans on his own initiative."

"Our ballistic examination proved definitely Laprise and Dr. Charles Reeder, 38, Durham osteopath, the other man killed, shot each other," Farris said.

The Kingdom, Inc., is the successor to the Holy Ghost and Us Society, founded 50 years ago by Rev. Frank E. Sandford, whose whereabouts since 1918 has been a mystery.

Farris revealed contents of an illiterate letter, signed "The Boss" which Laprise presented to Philip Holland, temple caretaker. The letter said the "Boss" was sending "one of my men to talk you and to bargain with you on what I want" and that it would be "good to leasen to him peacefully or you want it in the hard way."

Mrs. F.D. Greeting In Russian Paper

MOSCOW, March 8 (AP)—The government newspaper Izvestia printed on its front page today a greeting on "International Women's Day" signed by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Miss Kathleen Harriman, daughter of W. Averell Harriman, former U. S. ambassador to Russia; Dean Virginia Gilderleeve of Barnard College, Mrs. Henry A. Wallace, Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Miss Lillian Hellman, the playwright.

"We again are devoting our work to strengthening the friendship and peace between women of all those countries which at a dear price gained victory over the forces of reaction," the message said. "Let the new world born in this struggle bring with it peace, security and happiness for all of our children and for us."

Elsewhere, however, Peron maintained his advantage over Dr. Jose Tamborini.

Prison 'Guinea Pigs' Push Plea

Pardons for inmates who took part in perilous wartime blood experiments at Norfolk State Prison Colony were asked today in the published report of the colony's war effort committee as Lewis E. Lawes, famed penologist, was due to arrive there in his probe of the State's prison and parole conditions.

The colony's war effort committee is headed by "Lifer" James F. Weeks, whose plea for commutation of sentence and pardon under parole conditions was taken under advisement yesterday after a State Parole Board hearing.

Detailing how the experiments to determine if bull blood could be substituted for human plasma had taken one life, crippled several and made many seriously ill, the report said that with one exception none of the 222 volunteers in the experiment had "received any official acknowledgment of their patriotism from the State of Massachusetts."

Arthur St. Germain, an inmate who died after receiving injections of the experimental plasma, was pardoned posthumously.

The report declared the inmates who took part in the experiment had been commended by military, naval, medical and correctional leaders but fast were becoming "forgotten men" as far as the State was concerned.

The committee urged the State commend the patriotism of the inmate volunteers by granting them pardons, and concluded:

"It would be a fitting climax to such a glorious chapter in state penal history if these words could be inserted at its conclusion: "By 1946 every volunteer had been officially commended and released."

On his Norfolk visit today, Lawes planned to talk with Corrections Officer George S. Murray, who is fighting against dismissal.

Murray was scheduled to appear at a hearing today under his Civil Service rights to answer charges of Supt. Maurice N. Winslow that he had left his post while he had prisoners under his control.

Lawes also plans to visit Bridgewater State Farm, Concord Reformatory and the Women's Reformatory at Sherborn and have his report for Gov. Tobin ready by next Thursday.

Planes Collide; Navy Flier Lost

Two Navy fighter planes, carrying on an "attack" on eight others in a simulated combat maneuver over Buzzards Bay, collided at 7000 feet today, the pilot bailing out, one of his doom apparently.

A Coast Guard crash boat from Woods Hole took one flier out of the water. He was injured so badly he was hospitalized at the Naval Air Station, Quonset Pt., R. I.

The other pilot was still missing at 3 p. m., five hours after the Corsairs plunged into the sea ahead of the parachuting figures. Air-sea rescue planes and crash boats searched for him late today.

Naval authorities said the 10 planes had taken off for training at Quonset Point, over Buzzards Bay the two assigned for the attack came in on the rest. One crashed into the other, shearing off the tail.

Other pilots circled and directed searchers.

Families Ousted By B. U. to Take Fight to Courts

More than 40 families being evicted by Boston University from an apartment block in Bay State rd., after losing an appeal to the OPA today prepared to carry their fight to the courts.

It was disclosed a large number of them must move away from the state as all efforts to find living quarters have failed.

In some cases families will be split by the move.

Mrs. James Womelduff, wife of a returned Army veteran, said she had made plans to take her 2-year-old son, James 3d, to Kansas City while her husband must remain here as head of a religious publishing house.

But the most tragic plight is that of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cook. Their son, Cpl. Alexander Cook, one of the heroes of the "Hell on Wheels" Division, badly wounded in the Battle of the Bulge, is due to return from a Frankfurt, Germany, hospital in a month and they have not been able to find a home or apartment.

Largest family in the block is that of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Burke, who have five children ranging from 6 to 20 years. Mrs. Burke said that so far they have been unable to find a landlord who would rent to a family with children.

In the meantime B. U. is proceeding with plans to have the block remodeled into a dormitory for 300 students.

City Election Dept. Men Form Union

Unionization of employees in the municipal election department, a so-called "white collar" group, was disclosed today with an announcement they have formed Local 284 of the Federation of State, City and County Employees, AFL, with William S. Cummings as acting secretary and treasurer.

It was reported the development was a forerunner of others planned because of rumors that wage cuts are imminent at City Hall.

Navy Wife's Bliss Ends, Wins Decree

After two years of sublimely happy married life her Navy husband came home one night to tell her bluntly he had met someone else with whom he preferred to spend his time, Mrs. Anne M. Clark of Commonwealth ave., Back Bay, an attractive blonde, testified in Suffolk Probate Court today.

She said he became a heavy drinker and once emphasized a point to her by knocking her down.

Judge Robert G. Wilson, Jr., gave her an uncontested divorce from Harry B. Clark, former lieutenant, for cruel and abusive treatment.

He also gave her alimony of $80 a month and $40 monthly for her 2-year-old child.

Mrs. Martha H. Abell of Irving st., Beacon Hill, said her husband, Samuel, of Randolph, was so tight with a dollar he would not pay the milkman for milk their two babies drank. She said he was under order in another court to pay her $15 for support. Judge Wilson upped the amount to $25 and continued the case to await arrival of a birth certificate.

Divorces British Son of Gentleman

In England, being a gentleman is regarded as a full-time "occupation," even if the gentleman doesn't have to do a lick of work to earn a living—and if he does, Judge Robert G. Wilson learned in probate court today.

The information surprised him. It came in testimony which resulted in a divorce for Mrs. Mary M. Marnham of Walnut st., a Beacon Hill socialite, from Harold Marnham, a London solicitor.

Mrs. Marnham, the former Mary Mills Hatch of Tyngsboro, Mass., and Berkeley, Cal., beat her husband in an international divorce race, he having begun suit in London.

Mrs. Marnham's marriage certificate showed they were married in Alderham, Eng., in September, 1938. It said Marnham's father, a resident of Capetown, South Africa, had no occupation other than "gentleman."

Judge Wilson remarked, "I never knew it was an occupation."

Gov. Tobin said today he believed runways at Logan Airport would be ready to accommodate international plane traffic by April 15. Earlier estimated dates went by the board because contractors had trouble with frost-

Three in Everett Family Overcome

An Everett mother and her two small daughters were overcome today when a gas heater exhausted the oxygen in the closed kitchen of their home in Neilson ave.

Found unconscious on the kitchen floor were Mrs. Mary Kendall, 27; Beverly, 6, and Florence, 2. Their plight was discovered by a neighbor, Mrs. Sally Bessler, who walked in to pay a visit.

After opening windows, she summoned Dr. Benjamin Marks and Everett firemen. Mother and girls were revived.

TOKYO, March 8 (AP)—Allied headquarters announced today the last of four American officers arrested in connection with a million yen ($66,667) black market transaction had confessed. The four were not identified.

Won Hearis

Following his great victory at New Orleans during the War of 1812, Gen. Andrew Jackson was feted as a hero throughout the South. Virginia in particular turned out en masse to greet the conqueror, and it was in Virginia where Thomas Jefferson, father of American democracy, paid his famous tribute to Jackson:

"Honor and gratitude to those who have filled the measure of their country's honor." The arrival of Gen. Jackson in Washington surpassed even the anticipation of his visit. A great public dinner was given in his honor, and hostesses fought to entertain him in their homes. His simplicity, modesty and vigorous directness won all hearts.

Entries Set Record For Oratory Contest

By BERT FORD

With spirited enthusiasm, the young Boston public and parochial high school students of a postwar world have enlisted, in greater numbers than ever before, in the 1946 Hearst Newspapers National Oratorical Contest, it was announced by Hon. Leo P. Doherty, chairman of the local committee.

This contest is the fourth annual and the first since the end of World War II. The significant subject of the contest is "Andrew Jackson, Seventh President of the United States," and Judge Doherty remarked that the subject in itself has proved an inspiration to postwar youth. Judge Doherty, returned from a conference at the Parker House with school officials, reports a prompt and heartfelt response on the part of high school students in the 44 public and parochial schools in Boston.

"It is a tribute to these young people, as well as to the stirring subject of this contest and its eminent endorsers throughout the nation," Judge Doherty said, "that they have entered with such zest and interest, to acquaint themselves with the life and times of a great American general and President who faced postwar problems similar to their own.

"It proves that the minds and the hearts of our American youth can be kindled by the example of a fighting soldier and a thoughtful, constructive statesman."

Judge Doherty will confer again next week with school authorities to complete arrangements for the Boston finals, to be held April 10 in Faneuil Hall. Already the intramural contests are under way in both public and parochial high schools, as well as in the 14 colleges in the Boston area which have already enlisted in the contest.

This contest is open to all high school and college students in 13 major cities throughout the country, and Boston this year is headquarters for both eastern zone and national finals.

The eastern zone finals will be held April 24, at Boston Latin School, and the national finals on May 2, at the same historic school, which is the oldest public school in the country. Boston Latin School was founded April 23, 1635, by the "Town of Boston," and among its distinguished graduates are several presidents of Harvard College, which was founded more than a year later.

SOUTHAMPTON, March 8 (INS)—Cunard Line officials announced today a fire aboard the 85,000-ton luxury liner Queen Elizabeth had been extinguished. Scotland Yard investigators are probing possibility of sabotage.

The fire was confined to the liner's isolation hospital. It broke out among spare blankets. Clouds of smoke shrouded the liner and millions of gallons of water played on the blaze flooded decks and corridors.

Hitler Ex-Aide In Goering Plea

NUERNBERG, March 8 (AP)—Lutwaffe Gen. Karl Bodenschatz, one-time aide to Adolf Hitler, opened Hermann Goering's legal fight for life before the international military tribunal today with testimony that the former No. 2 Nazi had argued for peace from the Munich crisis to the eve of Soviet invasion.

Nervously flexing his bomb-scarred hands, which nearly were blown off in 1944 during an attempt by others on Hitler's life, Bodenschatz Goering's go-between with Hitler—said Goering had argued against the invasion of Russia on the ground it violated the principles laid down in "Mein Kampf" against a two-front war.

Testifying from copious notes, Gen. Bodenschatz told of a meeting Goering had on German soil near the Danish border in August, 1939, with "six or eight Englishmen in the English government" at which he said he favored survival of the British empire, pledged his influence to keep the peace and asked his listeners to do the same in London.

Music Proving Mental Aid For Mysterious 'Master'

DETROIT, March 8 (INS)—
"Music Master X," mentally unbalanced pianist, took another step toward regaining his sanity last night by attending a Detroit symphony concert.

The musician drew nation-wide attention 10 days ago when he played a concert before music experts here.

Last night he listened raptly, moved his fingers as though playing a piano accompaniment to Mozart and DeBussy.

Then the music ended. The spell broke.

"X" vaguely stood up in his box.

bowed to the audience, apparently in the delusion he had played or directed the music.

The patient's next step will be taken Sunday night when he will play on a coast-to-coast presentation of the "We the People" program from the Wayne County
General Hospital.

Paper Salvage Aids Red Cross

Proceeds from waste paper collected by the Boston Salvage Committee during its city-wide drive next week will be donated to the Red Cross, George G. Hyland, salvage director, announced today.

Monday's collections will be in Ward 1, East Boston; Ward 2, Charlestown, and Ward 3, North, West and South Ends.

Meanwhile, volunteer solicitors for the Red Cross drive, are making an extra effort to maintain their first-place position in the national campaign.

Boston jumped into the lead over other major cities when Campaign Chairman Francis W. Hatch reported that $1,056,502.59 had been raised to date, representing 55.5 per cent of the quota. He urged the workers to continue their efforts so that the $1,901,150 quota would be reached before March 26.

Watertown solicitors received a boost today when it was announced that John Little of Belmont st., prisoner of war of the Japs for four years, had offered his service as a solicitor to Chairman William Shannon.

"I owe my life to the Red Cross," Little said. "Were it not for them I doubt that I would be here today."

'Major' Is as Good as a Hired Man

Loretta Gentile, 17, of Burlington, With "Major" Who Is A Real Worker

He Keeps The Flock From Road

Major, the pet of 17-year-old Loretta Gentile of 80 Lexington st., Burlington, is just as good as a hired man around the Gentile's little farm. Loretta tells why in today's prize winning $5 letter in the Boston Record-American contest, "Why I Love My Dog." This is her story:

"I am only one of nine people who love Major. We live on a small farm and have a few animals. I am one of seven children and my father works nights so that we are alone until 1 a. m. But we don't mind it, for Major is always there to take charge of things.

"Major sits in front of the chicken, turkey and our three little pig houses and if any of them go too near the road he rounds them up and chases them back where they belong.

"One day my brother's rabbit got loose and was gone two days. Then we heard Major's bark and sure enough we found our pet with his paw holding down the runaway rabbit in the woods. Our nearest street is a mile from the house and Major never fails to do an errand without coming along to protect us. Our friends think he is a very remarkable dog."

All letters on the subject, "Why I Love My Dog," should be addressed to the Anti-Vivisection Editor, Boston Record-American, 8 Winchester st., Boston 8, Mass. The contest is open to all, and these newspapers will award a $5 prize each day for the best letter.

CANADA SHOWS US HOW

WHEN The Canadian Royal Commission made its first interim report on Russian espionage, these truths became self-evident:

FIRST—That every embassy or other office which the Soviet government maintains abroad is probably a Russian spy center.

SECOND—That for this reason alone it is foolhardy for any other government to employ Communists or Communist sympathizers in any capacity.

THIRD—That no government in the world should be more gravely concerned with this problem than the government of the United States.

Using the most positive language, the Canadian Royal Commission said:

"The evidence established that a network of under-cover agents has been organized and developed for the purpose of obtaining secret and confidential information particularly from employees of departments and agencies of the Dominion Government and from an employee of the Office of the High Commissioner for the United Kingdom in Canada.

"The evidence reveals that these operations were carried on by certain members of the staff of the Soviet Embassy at Ottawa UNDER DIRECT INSTRUCTIONS FROM MOSCOW."

The report then NAMED the embassy attaches in charge of the espionage, leaving no doubt as to their identities.

The report also named four accomplices who had been arrested—and one of whom immediately pleaded guilty—and NOT ONE OF THE FOUR IS A RUSSIAN.

They are all British or Canadian subjects. So the presumption must be that they are all either COMMUNISTS or FELLOW TRAVELERS—it does not matter which.

FURTHER DETAILS in the Canadian report—taken together with the arrest of a suspected "atomic scientist" in England—show that Russia was not operating against the British Empire alone.

Part of the assignment given to the "under-cover agents" BY MOSCOW was to procure complete information regarding the developments of the United States in scientific warfare and the disposition of its armed forces.

No matter what Secretary of State Byrnes and others may say, therefore, THIS COUNTRY has a very vital interest in the affair.

For it is silly to suppose that the Communist effort to purloin our defense secrets was made only in Canada.

There is a Russian Embassy at Washington, D. C., heavily staffed, with Russian consulates and commercial offices in other cities.

Moreover, it is a notorious fact that there are hundreds of Russian sympathizers almost everywhere in our Federal Government.

Secretary Byrnes must know about that. But the State Department, like the rest of the New Deal, behaves in a very strange way toward Communism.

Only a few months ago a group of conspirators was arrested for stealing OUT OF THE STATE DEPARTMENT ITSELF documents of value to Moscow.

One accomplice in the group was fined. But two others were sent to Japan—as State Department employees—to serve as "advisers" to General MacArthur.

And there has been no official denial of the fact—revealed in the New York Journal-American—that the FBI detected a Russian agent endeavoring to discover the atom-bomb secret; that the State Department prevented his arrest; and that he was finally allowed to escape from our borders just a few days before the Canadian expose began.

IN VIEW of the attitude of the State Department, perhaps it would be wise if this country asked Canada to send its Royal Commission to the United States as soon as its inquiries at Ottawa are finished.

A rigid investigation of the activities of the traitors in our own government is definitely desirable.

VITAMIN K in chewing gum reduces tooth decay. That is what a group of Northwestern University dental experts claim after a series of experiments. There's an idea for you. Manufacture some chewing gum containing vitamin K, advertise it clearly and widely, and make yourself a millionaire. I would do it myself but I don't want to be a millionaire. If I became a millionaire it would take all the excitement out of playing my racing system.

PASSING BY: Frances Starr. Greatest actress ever born in Albany, N. Y. Had her early training in two celebrated stock companies—the Alcazar of San Francisco and the Castle Square of Boston. First hit was in "The Rose of the Rancho." Greatest performance was in "The Easiest Way" as Babe Ruth. Erstwhile Sultan of Swat. Now living contentedly on the income of a trust fund purchased with his halcyon earnings. His wife recently ordered him to go on a weight diet so he would look less like the side of a house. Now he has only one order of ham and eggs for breakfast instead of three.

PLEASE NOTE: During 1946 the average woman will be able to purchase 10 pairs of stockings—seven pairs of which will be nylons. Before the war the average female could purchase 14 pairs of stockings—all nylons. Such is the statement of Earl Constantine of the National Association of Hosiery Manufacturers. It was Mr. Constantine, who about a year ago, suggested women go stockless or wear rayon in the morning in order to save their nylons for afternoon or evening. "After all," commented Mr. Constantine at that time, "nobody looks at a woman's legs before 11 o'clock in the morning."

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—My claim is that Pearl White, star of "The Perils of Pauline," died about 20 years ago in New York city. My husband says she died less than 10 years ago in Paris. A—Pearl White died Aug. 4, 1938, in the American Hospital in Paris. . . Q—Do you recall a ringman named "Knockout" Jones? A—Never heard of him. I remember one named "Knockout" Brown. He fought around 1912.

COMPLAINT DEPARTMENT: In every mail complaints arrive from tall girls who say the pint-sized cuties, or "little, but, oh my!" types, are concentrating successfully on winning the affections of tall men. A Chicago subscriber, who states she is a "blue-eyed brownette, five feet nine inches tall," asks: "Why don't those shrinks who are so fond of being called cats, little tricks, fall in love with somebody their own size?"

MULES AND MEN: As an explanation of what was wrong with her marriage, a woman seeking a divorce stated her husband was "a bachelor at heart." That was a confession of weakness on her part. Practically all men are bachelors at heart. That is to say, they love their liberty. The woman in this case just didn't know how to make a husband out of a bachelor. This is not always an easy task, especially in the case of San Francisco, Detroit and Seattle bachelors.

STATISTICS: Add interesting statistics: Places under 25,000 in population account for 81 per cent of the auto dealers in the U. S. A.; 74 per cent of the filling stations, and 49 per cent of the drugstores. And here is something people in many lines of endeavor should always remember: One third of the population of the United States is under 21 years of age.

HOBBLE SKIRT: A dispatch from Paris says the hobble skirt is to be in style again, especially for "racertrack wear." If you don't remember this ridiculous style, which was popular around 1914, ask one of your parents to draw a picture of it. If these things are to be worn at racetracks, I can hardly wait to see some excited woman attired in one trying to run to a mutual window to avoid being shut out. However, it might not be funny. She would stand a chance of falling flat on her face and smashing her proboscis.

HOLIDAY BIRTHS: Holiday births seem to run in families. For example, Mrs. George F. Clark of Lawrence gave birth to a daughter on July 4, 1943. On New Year's Day, 1946, she gave birth to a son. Mrs. Clark's husband was born on Christmas Day. She has twin brothers who were born on Washington's Birthday.

"Public library? Can you tell me how 'Mazard in the Sausage Factory' ends? The doctor says I can leave here today!"

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1946, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

READERS OF these dispatches may recall that John Lord, a staff writer on the People's World of San Francisco, wrote a story in which he said that the American GI hated his own officers—all of them—much more than he ever hated the Japs.

Westbrook Pegler

The People's World, a radical paper, described John Lord as a sergeant and said he had been "editor of the Mid-Pacific, the second largest Army newspaper in the world," published in Honolulu.

The title of the story was "Why Soldiers Hate Officers."

The People's World also said that Lord later was editor of the Ie Shima Daily News, published at Ie Shima under battle conditions.

But Lt. Gen. Robert L. Richardson, commander of the Army in the Mid-Pacific, states that Lord never was editor of the Mid-Pacific but was, for a time, a re-write man on the paper, without executive authority.

General Richardson further claims that Lord "has a number of aliases." He was removed from the Mid-Pacific staff in Feb. 1945, about the time that a slanted political question was presented to a number of soldiers, ostensibly picked at random but obviously hand-picked, as the work of the inquiring reporter.

Whether it is true that he later worked his way into the editorship of the Ie Shima Daily News, I do not yet know.

It may be stated further that the Mid-Pacific Command has made a careful inquiry into the record of Sgt. David Livingston, a leader of the recent demonstrations in Honolulu who was "selected" by an organized "spontaneous" rally of soldiers to go to Washington to express soldier grievances to a committee of the Senate. His activities now are being watched carefully.

SINCE THE RALLY in Honolulu, an article has been published in the Union Voice, the official paper of Local 10 of the Retail and Wholesale Workers Union of the CIO of which David Livingston is president.

This union is extreme left wing in its politics. Discussing the Honolulu disorders, the article written by Sgt. David Livingston said:

"The demonstrations were touched off at least partly by the fear that American troops were being kept in the Army to perform functions which would ruin us as soldiers."

In this connection it is fair to speculate as to which ally would be offended by the maintenance of American fighting strength and the occupation of Pacific defenses.

Certainly, Britain would not be offended but the reduction of American strength would in no way displease Soviet Russia.

NOW WE RETURN to the case of Sgt. Ken Pettus, managing editor of the Stars and Stripes in Tokyo, who recently was relieved and ordered to Okinawa following "a negative report on a loyalty check."

When the order came through, 11 other members of the staff protested to Gen. MacArthur.

Sgt. Ken Pettus was identified as a reporter in civil life in Tacoma, Wash.

In 1940, Ken Pettus was editor of the Timber Worker, the official paper of the International Wood Workers of America of the CIO.

During the 1940 convention of that union, the late Worthing Lowery, then vice-president and later president, charged that, under Pettus, the paper had lost many readers because it carried "propaganda outside the problems of the union."

As an example, he referred to publicity given a peace mobilization in Chicago during the period when the American Communists were opposing the draft and all preparations for defense because Stalin and Hitler were then Allies.

The next year Lowery was elected president on an anti-Communist platform and Pettus was relieved.

HUGH DELACY, a Congressman, from the State of Washington, is listed as president of the Free Press Publishing Corporation. And further references in the Dies report state:

That Delacy was formerly a member of the Seattle City Council; president of the American Committee of the Foreign Born; an officer of the American Peace Mobilization, which opposed American rearmament during the Hitler-Stalin alliance; a signer of a proclamation in 1941, shortly before Hitler attacked Russia, accusing President Roosevelt of "dragging us into a war 3000 miles away;" and a signer of a demand for the release of Earl Browder, then chief of the American Communists, who was in prison for a passport fraud.

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 8—If Paramount had anybody in mind for "Adventures of a Ballad Hunter" but their own Bing Crosby, the entire studio would need to be psychoanalyzed.

Of course, it's for Bing—for this is the autobiography of John A. Lomax and his famous quest for American folk ballads. It was Lomax, and his son, Alan, who compiled more than 10,000 "Songs of the People" for the Library of Congress.

Among those wonderful songs for Bing, which will be available, will be such cowboy chants as "Home on the Range" and such Negro spiritual ballads as "Motherless Child." Those songs will sound as never before when Bing sings them. Mac Kinlay Kantor, who is as American as pork and beans, or apple pie and cheese, will write the screenplay from Lomax' autobiography to be published soon by Mac Millan.

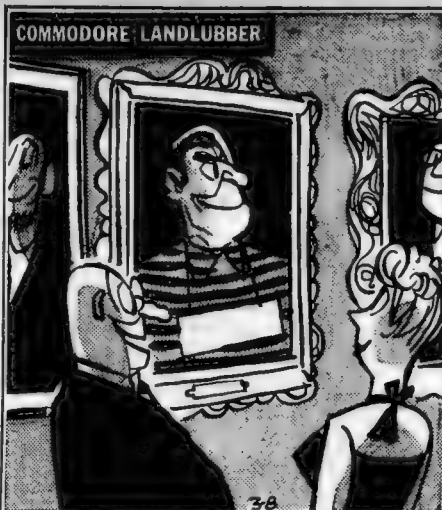

DENNIS MORGAN'S kids think he's a swell actor, and all that, but he's never quite registered with them because he's never played a cowboy. They love Gene Autry, Roy Rogers and Gary Cooper, but Dennis has never had a chance to shoot 'em up and sing cowboy songs. Now he says he can face the kids because he's going to be starred in "Cheyenne," once rumored as an Errol Flynn picture. You can bet Dennis will give Gene and Roy competition. Jane Wyman's the leading lady and Raoul Walsh will direct.

MARY MARTIN, who has never been back here since she went East and made a hit in "One Touch of Venus," returns to Paramount in the summer. Mary almost came out when Mary Pickford was to do "One Touch of Venus," then she was so ill for so long that time went by and she had to keep her stage engagement. Now she'll do Sir James Barrie's well-known play, "Alice-Sit-by-the-Fire." And here's a real break. She'll get Billy Wilder and Charlie Brackett. Now, could any girl ask for more? Mary and her husband, Richard Halliday, were so worried over the reviews of "Lute Song" that they put more money into the play to see if they couldn't turn it into a hit.

WILD HORSES couldn't drag Fannie Hurst to Hollywood at least that's the word received by William Keighley and Ralph Jester who thought they had the lady all tied up to write their Carrie Jacobs Bond movie, "I Love You Truly." She didn't mind writing it in New York but since the producers are here, they thought she would be on hand. That's what they thought—until Fannie said "no Hollywood!" So the writing job has been turned over to another talented scribe. Ketti Frings, who is very well known for her "Hold Back the Dawn" and "God's Front Porch."

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Van Johnson and Frank Sinatra arrived in town Tuesday and I wonder if Van didn't have to do a little explaining to Sonja Henie. He went to see her as soon as he landed in town. According to one of the New York reporters, when Van was questioned about Sonja, he said, "Sonja who?"

—Richter—Copyright, 1946. King Features Syndicate, Inc.
"Uncle Herbert was the black sheep of the family!"

which the reporter thought wasn't exactly polite. Maybe Van thought he was protecting the skating queen or was it a joke, brother?

GEORGE SANDERS, who has been a bit of everything—an architect, a scientist, astronomer, writer and, of course, a screen lover, has come to a decision that he might as well be a movie producer. So, with Arnold Pressberger, George is incorporating himself as one of the bigwigs of a firm to be called, Regency Productions, Inc. The boys will produce two movies a year, starring George, and the first will be "Change of Times," a modern drammer. Mr. Sanders, who is a bit on the snippy side, should have a field day okaying sets, scripts, actors, etc. After all, when you're an architect, writer, actor yourself, you expect the best.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Diederé Flynn has the measles. Yes, she's the daughter of Nora Eddington and Errol Flynn, and she's quarantined at her grandmother's house; Mae West has bought herself a night club in Las Vegas at the reported price of one million dollars. She must have some good backers; Mickey Rooney has named his stepfather, Fred Pankey, business manager of his new independent film company. Pankey has been with M-G-M's accounting department for several years; Johnny Weissmuller was out with a very pretty girl, who he said was Eleanor Gates, a golfing champion. Johnny certainly goes for these champs; David Selznik has taken Betty Newing out twice this last week; Johnny Myers introduced Prince Carl of Sweden and his bride the other evening; and all those who met them were impressed with their simplicity. They certainly are being given a whirl in our town.

Boston American, March 8—27

CESAR ROMERO has started a new fad—a bright plaid shirt which is more Las Vegas than anything Hollywood has seen this year. But Cesar can wear it and get away with it; the famous butler of Bogey's and Baby's, Frederick Clark, who addresses the Bogarts as m'lord and m'lady, is applying for American citizenship. He hails from London—and talks it; the Joan Fontaine-Joan Houseman romance is dead. Houseman is now being attentive to Constance Dowling, sister of Doris Dowling. Billy Wilder's heart-beat; I'm told there is a real feud going on between Maxie Baer and Maxie Rosenbloom on their personal appearance tour. When they do their act they're okay, but backstage the freeze sets in; Irene Ryan is receiving from her bridegroom, Harold Knox, the Sergi collection of Valentino moments, which is now extremely valuable. Kay Kyser has been trying to get away for a month's tour of the hospitals but his doctor is flatly refusing permission; Janet Gaynor was certainly a credit to Adrian at the races. She looked so smart everyone turned to look at her. It was the second time I've been to Santa Anita during this meet and I found I do better if I don't listen to all the tips. In other words, I didn't lose as much as I usually do. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Broadway

NEW YORK, March 8—Joyce Matthews (Mrs. Milton Berle), is out of "Up in Central Park" with pneumonia . . . The Max Baers have Reno in the bean-o, and he's making no secret of it in Florida . . . Rose Heitner, former Broadway showgirl and one-time El Morocco cigaret seller, will waltz down the aisle with a millionaire fabric manufacturer next Monday . . . Watch the headlines for a major Treasury Department shakeup. Two top agents will be Lois Andrews dropped as the result of a much-publicized case . . . Jan Clayton's doctors have ordered a complete rest to ward off a nervous collapse . . . Marion Colby, who sings at the Carnival, will marry Jackie Barnett, she penned her special material . . . Two hours after Lew Brice's 800 Club folded, the local night club owners cleaned out the stock of liquor in a mad bidding scramble . . . Paul Douglas is having voice trouble. His shouting role in "Born Yesterday" is a terrific strain on the vocal chords.

LOIS ANDREWS will return to N. Y. within a fortnight with her Jerilyn . . . The amazing Ballantine, the comical magician who scored such a big hit at the Diamond Horse-show, will be missing from the Main Stem and applause for a long time. He's seriously ill at Saratoga . . . East Side bars report a new drinking vogue—French Seventy-Fives. (Just murder, that's all: champagne and brandy) . . . Theater owners in the proposed Unoville section of Connecticut are delighted . . . Cletus Caldwell's mama is returning to the Coast next week to arrange for her fourth divorce. Cletus is the ex-Mrs. Ken Murray.

MARDI BRYANT, of "I Like It Here" (which drew happy notices in Boston), is a new Broadway Cinderella story. She was signed for the ingenue role in the play the very day she arrived from Wisconsin seeking a stage career, and three weeks later had three movie offers . . . Jackie Gleason's estranged wife, Genevieve, is journeying here from Hollywood to untangle their financial differences. She claims the comedian is in arrears with the support he agreed to provide for her and their two children . . . Mickey Rooney had never seen his manager, Sam Stiefel, until he arrived back in the U. S. from Europe, although Sam has been handling his affairs for a couple of years . . . Eddie Bracken will be in the Paramount's Easter show . . . Lou Levin of Gilmore's is planning a Mexico City branch of his eating place . . . Two indignant Boston matrons, both weighing in at about 170, created a scene in Toots Shor's at lunch time. They had read somewhere that Frank Sinatra ate there every day, and when it came time for them to leave for the 4 o'clock train back, and the Voice hadn't shown, they demanded that Toots give them the cost of the trip—$40. (He didn't).

A NUMBER of the nation's most important scientists are withdrawing from the atomic bomb project because they resent the restrictive measures being used by the Army. Some also have expressed the feeling that they have been "treated like criminals," with guards assigned to them 24 hours a day.

tary aide, in Statler Embassy Room the other night.

A very shapely lady called Hildegard was on the stage gyrating around and whacking her thighs—and I wish to say that if she ever gets tired doing this I will be glad to take over the chore. Finally she spotted Gen. Vaughan and began heaving personality at him.

The general got quite flustered, which was new for Col. Gates. He began ribbing Vaughan unmercifully. In the midst of this, Hildegard suddenly leaped from the stage and threw a pair of highly-talcumed arms around Col. Gates.

The latter came completely undone. And to add to his discomfort, Hildegard emitted a squeal, pretending he had—ex—made advances.

For the rest of the evening Col. Gates sat there squirming, trying to brush powder from his blue serge—while Gen. Vaughan gave him the business.

OBSERVATION BY Sen. Brewster of Maine:

"If Ed Pauley only had the savoir faire and kidding nonchalance of George Allen this business of confirming his appointment would be a push-over."

SEN. BREWSTER meant that it is virtually impossible to maintain any righteous indignation in the face of George Allen's blitheness. Mr. Pauley, on the other hand, is a sober, serious citizen—a perfect target.

MR. BERT WHEELER, the comedian, caused a riot at the White House correspondents dinner for President Truman. A sour-looking stooge came out and identified himself as the assistant to Mr. Ed. Pollard, new president of the association.

Mr. Wheeler surveyed the outlandishly-dressed stooge from head to foot, then exclaimed:

"So you're his assistant! My gosh, that Pollard must be a louser!"

George Holland

Boston After Dark

STORIES THAT Edwin W. Pauley will withdraw his name from consideration by the Senate today can be discounted . . . Pauley will take this climactic action to end the controversial case, but the withdrawal will be ing, indeed . . . We have never seen more enthusiasm and less bad breeding in an audience . . . Courtesy and politeness was the keynote . . . And so it will be in Boston in spite of the Daughters of the American Revolution's action in forbidding Eddie the use of Constitution Hall in Washington because of an alleged fear that his concert would prove "destructive" . . . Condon, whose quick wit is becoming a byword in New York, is billing himself as the sweetheart of the D. A. R.

"LITTLE BROWN JUG" was shattered by the New York critics, and Courtney Burr will have to try again . . . It was a phrase-worship attempt, nonetheless . . . "Three To Make Ready" and Ray Bolger had the critics raving . . . Walter Winchell has added about 15 pounds to his lean frame, we would judge . . . He looks very fit . . . Ann Corio, whom Boston knows quite intimately, has two propositions (legitimate) . . . Dave Wolper wants her for a show . . . Lou Walter is talking about an Ann Corio theater already yet . . . In it, he would produce novel shows featuring Ann—dressed up . . . Why should he bother with novel shows? . . . Ann dressed up would be a novelty show without going to the trouble of thinking up words and music.

THE MECHANICS OF THE PAULEY retirement from the battlefield have been set . . . He has written a letter of thanks to the President which makes known his decision to sacrifice his personal ambition for the good of the Democratic party . . . The President's answer will bespeak his reluctance to accept the withdrawal . . . But he has no choice but to do so . . . The President is said to regret the ending of the Pauley case chiefly because it seems, on the surface, to award a decision to his former secretary of the interior, Harold "Drop Jaw" Ickes . . . But Pauley's action does take the President off a spot that was circumscribed as a dangerous one . . . Already, the gleeful Republican camp has been anticipating the coming fall elections, as well as the President's campaign of 1948, as elections in which the Democratic party was to be smeared as the "oil party" . . . "The well of corruption" was another phrase the GOP propagandists were ready to employ.

SEN. TOBEY of New Hampshire and possibly the jobless Ickes seem to be victors in the Pauley battle . . . Whether Ickes won anything other than a host of new enemies and reams of fresh publicity will await inspection of the columns he is planning to write . . . admitting that Old Drop Jaw, his new nickname of unestablished genesis, has a gift for turning an occasional clever phrase and thinking up slogans and invective, turning out a column is something else again . . . The Curmudgeon, or Drop Jaw, was smart enough to contract for only three columns a week . . . But three a week can be too many for aspiring journalists who have made reputations in other fields.

ON MONDAY in Symphony Hall, Bostonians will have a look and a listen to the prized character of jazz or hot music . . . He is Eddie Condon, a sincere, modest and witty alcolyte at the altar of jazz, who is the leading entrepreneur in that field by as wide a margin as Sol Hurok leads in the promotion of concerts and ballets . . . Eddie is bringing a crew of top men in jazz-mania to Boston, and the concert will be a sell-out . . . Brad Gowans, the trombonist who once caught for Arlington High baseball team, Dave Tough, the inspired little drummer, Joe Sullivan, the talented pianist, and Eddie himself strumming his guitar, are among them.

LAST SATURDAY, the same crew packed town hall to its upper beams . . . The audience—which we saw personally—might have been an audience listening to a Friday afternoon of the Boston Symphony . . . Jitterbugs and bobby-soxers were present in a ratio of not more than one to 50 average persons . . . It was an enlight-

WASHINGTON, March 8—I submit, ladies and gentlemen of the jury, that this is a clear case of justifiable homicide. When you have heard the facts I am confident you will have murder in your hearts, too.

At this time we offer Exhibit A and ask that it be marked for identification. It purports to be a report of her day's activities on Capitol Hill by my heavy-thinking associate, Miss Marion Reid.

When you have read it all, ladies and gentlemen, I am sure you will agree there are times when the taking of human life comes under the head of constructive effort. Herewith is Miss Reid's report—(any interpolations in brackets being mine):

"Yesterday I entered the elevator in the Capitol and asked for the subway. I did this so I could get to the House Office Building. (I thought maybe she wanted to go to Times sq.)

"A lovely-looking lady entered at the same time and smiled at me and I smiled back. She got off at the subway, too, and we both proceeded to walk over to the H. O. B., which is how we distinguish the House Office Building from the Senate Office Building.

"On the way over she walked a little ahead of me, but finally I caught up and she smiled and I smiled. We walked on a little further and I smiled and then she smiled. (Sounds as if you were both in a rut.)

Socialites at Cushman Club Lecture
SOCIALITES fascinated by the theater and its personalities flocked to the Charlotte Cushman Club yesterday for the first of four Thursday morning lectures on the world the other side of the footlights. Proceeds of the series benefit the club actresses visiting Boston.

During the sociable coffee and doughnut hour preceding yesterday's lecture by Jeffrey Harwood, actor, author and radio commentator, Mrs. Edward M. Fitzpatrick provided a pleasant accompaniment with her impromptu piano playing. She is happily looking forward to a trip to England this summer, her first visit to her native land in 16 years.

Mrs. Malcolm Bradley French, president of the club, attractively dressed in black wool with a jaun-ty American Beauty felt hat and gold costume jewelry, welcomed the many subscribers. Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird, co-chairman with Mrs. William C. Co-burn of the lecture series, introduced Mr. Harwood. She wore a black sheer wool red-tinge costume and halo hat with pink hyacinths on the sides.

The pourers Virginia Palfrey were Mrs. Ezra Ripley Thayer who accented her lovely white hair with a modish black suit, high necked black satin blouse and fetching hat of black fluted taffeta flowers; Mrs. Franklin W. Hobbs in a turquoise wool ensemble and Miss Irene Lyall whose black dress had a gay print tuxedo front to match the print piping on her hat.

Post deb Jane Ferguson headed the ushers. Mrs. J. Harold Kavanagh and her hostess, Mrs. Bartlett Eldredge, were among the many attending.

MRS. RONALD LYMAN, Mrs. George S. West, Mrs. Bayard Warren and Mrs. Bartlett Harwood are among the socialite patronesses for the jazz concert by Eddie Condon and his famed hot musicians in Symphony Hall next Monday. Among the younger jazz fans who will be tapping their toes in rhythm to the music are Ginny Palfrey, Sally and Anne Wigglesworth, Frances Baker and Kay Winthrop.

MRS. ELSTON F. COOPER, Needham, president of Wheelock College Alumnae Association, Mrs. Wilfred A. Weatherber, Watertown, Mrs. Henry M. Walker, Mrs. Donald C. Root, Mrs. Howard Burge, Mrs. N. H. S. Vincent and Miss Frances Tredek will be among those attending Wheelock's spring play "Shubert Alley" in Whitney Hall, Brookline tomorrow evening. Local girls in the dramatic club who are helping with the production include Margaret Clifford, Florrie Baybutt, Rosamond Walker, Frances Allen, Helen Cummings. Proceeds will be used for Wheelock's traveling theater group which presents plays for underprivileged and hospitalized children.

THE WARM SPRING sunshine tempted attractive Mrs. F. Murray Forbes Jr., to shed her furs in favor of a spring suit for a stroll down Beacon st., yesterday.

Time for Sea Food Dishes

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

SEA FOOD COOKERY comes in for some much deserved extra attention each year during the Lenten season. Interesting flavoring is probably nowhere more important than in this branch of cookery, for fish and shell fish need contrast to provide flavor harmony. Often a measure of wine or a flavorsome herb can mean the difference between a dull dish and one with real appetite appeal.

SHRIMP BISQUE

2 cups cooked, cleaned or canned shrimp
1/2 cup white table wine
1/2 cup butter, margarine or cooking oil
1/2 cup flour
1 tsp. minced onion
3 cups milk
Salt and pepper
1 cup cream
Dash of cayenne

Add wine to shrimp. Cover and set in refrigerator for 1/2 hour. Prepare white sauce as follows: Melt butter or margarine in top of double boiler. Add the flour gradually and blend until smooth. Cook 2 or 3 minutes. Scald the milk. Add minced onion to the milk and stir into butter-flour mixture. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened and smooth. Season with salt and pepper. Add the shrimp and the wine. Add the cream. Heat thoroughly and add the dash of cayenne. Serve with bread croutons. Makes 5 to 6 servings.

WINE FISH CHOWDER

1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup minced onion
1 small can shrimp
1 small can minced clams
1 can mixed vegetables
2 cups medium white sauce
1/2 cup white table wine

Melt butter in frying pan. Add onion, chopped shrimp, minced clams, and drained vegetables, and saute together for 5 minutes. Make white sauce in usual way. Just before serving combine the two mixtures, season to taste, and stir in wine. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

BROILING FISH

Basting fish filets or steaks with a mixture of wine and butter, margarine, or cooking oil while broiling is another easy and very effective way to add exciting flavor to Lenten meals. For a well cooked product, allow a total of 5 to 10 minutes for broiling steaks or filets. Pre-heat the broiler to 500 deg. F. for 10 minutes, baste the fish with the wine mixture and place about 2 inches below the flame. After 3 to 5 minutes, season the fish with salt and pepper; turn, baste again with the wine and broil on the other side.

A second basting with the wine mixture comes after about 2 minutes of broiling. Then the fish is given the final 2 or 3 minutes under the broiler. Broiled fish basted with wine is very easy to prepare and it is fish at its best. The wine cuts the oiliness of the fish and adds immeasurably to its flavor.

FILLETS OF SOLE WITH WHITE WINE

Salt and pepper 4 large or 8 small filets of sole or flounder. In a large skillet melt 1 tsp. butter or margarine or cooking oil and add:

1 tsp. chopped onion

NOT "IT MIGHT as well be spring" ... it WILL be spring when you wear this black brightened-with-color dress that the New York Dress Institute notarizes with signature approval.

1 tsp. chopped parsley
2 or 3 mushrooms (fresh or canned) chopped fine
1 stalk celery, chopped
1 bay leaf
1 cup white table wine
1/2 cup canned consommé
Lay the filets in the hot liquid and let simmer 5 to 10 minutes, until barely tender. Remove carefully to oven-proof platter or shallow baking dish. Boil down the liquid in which fish was cooked, until about 1/2 cup remains. Add 2 tsp. cream, more seasonings if needed. Strain the liquid over fish in the baking dish, sprinkle grated Parmesan cheese over all, and bake on the upper shelf of a hot oven (450 deg. F.) about 10 minutes, or until the top is lightly browned. Makes 4 servings.

Spring Violets Stir Feminine Appeal

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

BEAUTY AND FASHION EDITOR FLOWERS ARE IMPOR-

TANT this spring ... you will find them blooming in profusion on hats, gloves, belts and other accessories. Perfume gaily follows the floral trend ... and one of the most enchanting in this group is the scent of wood violets.

There's no flower that breathes of spring and heralds its approach as those purple blossoms grouped together on a shield of green. When you see the flower vendor and his box of violet corsages at the street corner ... you know spring is on its way and that soon the birds will chirp their sweet good morning of heart-warming freshness and welcome season.

NOSTALGIC SCENT

There is an eternally feminine appeal about the fragrance of this shy flower ... and a specialist in reproducing flower scents ... has caught the nostalgic odor of this bloom in a perfume that repeats and repeats as well ... to help you with artful design to look and feel fresh as spring.

Birds are on the wing again when the violets make their debut ... and since it is smart ... the latest vogue ... in fact, to wear flower accessories ... why not add a touch of spring to your wardrobe with a coordinated wood violet perfume to complement the bouquet of purple lovelies on your lapel.

You might wish to dramatize a black or navy dress ... and you can achieve this by pinning a huge cluster of deep purple violets at your belt and scenting them with the real thing ... real wood violet perfume. You can go so far as to create your own accessories ...

FLOWER BELT

Have you ever thought of a tropical lei of wood violets to wear around your neck ... a flower-covered belt to flatter your waist ... a dainty wristlet of flowers to wear as jewelry? An idea that is new as spring is a mufti smothered with wood violets and scented with the perfume of this delicious flower. Since flower fashions are rampant in millinery too ... your first bonnet may well be a halo of wood violets saturated with the scent for increased drama to make of you a walking halo of perfumed loveliness. While the deep purple violets frame your face in beauty ... illuminate your complexion ... you can be a dream come true with the beautiful scent that is typical of spring.

For the name of this truly remarkable and realistically captured wood violet perfume, phone the Beauty Dept., LIB-erty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Black's Important

by BETTINA BEDWELL

THE bustle back is something very big in our new spring styles. That flattering flare that comes just below a slim waistline at the back can be found in a lot of different kinds of clothes, from evening clothes to coats and suits.

Some of our best designers are making models that have this bustle flare to the back of them. An example is the suit sketched here. From Anthony Blotta, who has no superiors in making ready-to-wear suits, this suit has a white linen jacket with a bustle flare below a fitted waistline at the back.

Black buttons on the neckline down the sleeves make striking decorations. The black skirt is very slim to set off the flare of the jacket.

YOU MAY not be able to afford this exciting palladium chain necklace featuring two exquisite diamond plumes which adorns the beautiful neck of glamorous Rhonda Fleming ... but you can achieve a throat of beauty if you encircle your neck with a tropical lei of wood violets and match the bloom with the real wood violet perfume which a specialist in reproducing flower scents has so amazingly captured. It must be spring when there's wood violet in the air.

Wedding Reception Guests

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: 1—My husband and I have been invited to a reception a friend is giving in honor of the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of her parents.

Since the parents are not close friends of ours, what would be a proper gift to send them in recognition of this occasion? My husband feels that it should be a gift in silver, while I think that flowers might be more suitable. In either case, the gift or flowers should be sent before the reception ... or am I wrong?

2—The reception hours are from four to six. Does this mean that guests are given the privilege of arriving and leaving during that specified time?

3—And what would be the proper length of our call?

B. E.

1—Since you and your husband are not close friends of the guests of honor, it would not be expected that you send a consequential gift to them, and I agree with you that flowers would be an appropriate gesture for you to make. Your flowers should be sent to arrive on the morning of the reception, so that they can be planned as a festive part of the reception background. Since your invitation was by courtesy of your friend, perhaps you and your husband might like to send her a corsage. And, of course, it is quite proper for you to send the anniversary couple some simple gift for their home ... it need not be a gift of silver.

2—Yes.

3—You might stay about a half hour—or longer if you wish.

WHEN AN ENGAGEMENT IS BROKEN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Last year, when my daughter's boy friend was here on a furlough, he gave her a wristwatch as a parting gift. Just before Christmas he gave her an engagement ring and at the same time a jewelry ensemble. As an engagement present she gave him a wristwatch. Now their engagement is broken and she is returning the engagement ring to him. She and I would like to have you tell us if she should also return the wristwatch and other jewelry he gave her. Also she would like to know if it is right for her to expect him to return the wristwatch she gave him if she doesn't return all the jewelry gifts he gave her. S. C.

Your daughter should return not only the engagement ring but all gifts her former fiance gave her. A right-thinking girl does not want to have any things that remind her of the broken engagement. Her former fiance should also return to her any presents that she gave him, particularly the wristwatch, her engagement gift to him.

"Just look at what's been happening in our laboratories

TO IMPROVE YOUR TELEPHONE SERVICE"

DEVELOPED in our laboratories, made practical by engineering and manufacturing skill, here are a few of the new things improving telephone service:

Radio links to supplement open wire and cable circuits over land or over sea; operator-dialing of long distance calls that will put your distant calls through faster; a tiny tube that makes possible the sending of hundreds of long distance telephone conversations at the same time—or the living patterns of television—over a single coaxial or radio channel; an electronic clock, accurate to within a second a year, to help in the measurement of frequencies upon which modern communications are based.

Ideas like these, born of constant research at the Bell Laboratories, help us in our aim—to provide a telephone service that meets constantly higher standards.

Sound GI Loans Urged on Banks

Bankers were urged today to make "sound GI mortgage loans" not only in the interest of the banks but because GIs deserve help.

The recommendation came from Neil MacInnis, treasurer of the Malden Savings Bank, at the closing session of the two-day Eastern Regional Savings and Mortgage Conference of the American Bankers' Ass'n at Hotel Statler.

However, he warned: "Nothing worse could happen to banks, their communities or the GIs who live there than to have a lot of badly planned loans made to borrowers doomed to failure from the start."

Gordon F. Christie, mortgage officer of the People's Savings Bank of Bridgeport, Ct., recommended banks make construction loans for small family units in greater quantities.

Doughnut Bullseye in Japan

YOKOHAMA, March 8 (AP)—Fifty-six thousand doughnuts were ruined by two warning shots fired into the air by a soldier guarding a brewery here.

The guard saw two Japs attempting to enter a brewery window and fired into the air to frighten them. Two bullets hit a power line overhead, cutting off current to a Red Cross doughnut factory and stopping its ovens.

Anne Lally, Baltimore, in charge of doughnut production commented:

"I can't understand it — he had the entire sky as a target."

Old Ironsides

Repair Job Started

A crew of Navy repair men was assigned to repair work on Old Ironsides in Charlestown Navy Yard today.

The historic old craft was slightly damaged when a small Navy tug, the YBB 327, crashed into her stern. The tug developed motor trouble and crashed before it could be halted.

M. I. T. Head Cites Jap GI 'Rights'

The Japs had a GI Bill of Rights, too, but it was a far cry from that of this country, President Earl T. Compton of M. I. T., said today in an address at Flanders Day chapel services, Wellesley College.

"It was 10:30 at night when surrender was announced in Japan," he said. "Each soldier was given an hour and one-half to turn in his equipment. He was given a 20-pound pack of rice and told to go home afoot. This was the Jap GI Bill of Rights."

Four Hub Fish Firms Suspend

Boston's fish situation, hampered by a 10-week tieup of the trawler fleet, was complicated further today by closing of four fish-handling firms.

Thomas D. Rice, executive secretary of the Federated Fishing Boats of New England and New York, Inc., charged the closing had been forced by action of the Atlantic Fishermen's Union, AFL, in passing word to dragger owners not to supply fish to the four companies.

Patrick McHugh, secretary-treasurer of the union, denied the charge and said the lumpers apparently did not wish to supply the firms.

Rice said the union order came after it had charged the four firms were filleting fish for the owners of the tied-up trawler fleet.

GE Workers Deny Syracuse Light Claim

Reports from Syracuse blaming striking Lynn GE workers for tying up area lights needed to keep that city from a blackout, were denied today by Lynn union officials.

Frank Kelly, acting business agent of the United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers Union, CIO, said he had received no request from the company for permission to move the equipment through picket lines.

PATHOLOGIST DIES

ROCHESTER, Minn., March 8 (AP)—Dr. Harold E. Robertson, 67, senior consultant in the Mayo clinic section on pathologic anatomy and one time head of that section, died today. He was formerly pathologist in Boston City Hospital.

Thieves, Beware!

Thieves who broke into a contractor's shed in Lynn Shore drive near the Lynn-Swampscott line were warned by Metropolitan police today they were carting around trouble.

Lt. John J. Dana of Revere Metropolitan Station said lost included detonators used to set off explosives.

The detonators highly sensitive, may explode at the slightest impact with enough force to cause severe injury.

Redskins' Marshall Seeks Koslowski's Signature

By JACK CONWAY

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 8—A day in Washington ... George Marshall of the Washington Redskins trying frantically to sign Stanley Koslowski, former Holy Cross football ace, who packed up and left the Worcester college ... The Redskins drew Koslowski in the draft, and they could make good use of him next year ... Koslowski could probably get $7500 for his services which is considered high compensation for a first-year man in pro football.

Koslowski played brilliant football at Holy Cross, but was irked by the rules which govern the students ... returning servicemen all find it difficult to accept the rules that control college routine ... It is difficult for many of them to understand why they cannot come and go as they please, long as they do not do anything wrong ... Men who have fought in all parts of the world do not take kindly to the regulations over college.

College authorities frankly admit they find it easier to deal with youngsters out of high and prep schools who have not the background of war.

Yancey Henry, a former all-America heavyweight champion, fighting for his life in a Washington hospital ... Yancey was injured in a recent bout in Baltimore but, after a short period of hospitalization, he was permitted to return to his home here.

Henry visited a local gym and appeared to be in good health but, upon his return to his home, he became unconscious ... The boxer was rushed to a local hospital where he has been accorded every possible treatment ... There have been four boxing casualties this year, the most recent being a college student.

Lieut. Com. Fred McLaughlin asking to be remembered to Mal Massucco, George Holland, Com. John Rooney and his many other Boston friends ... Pressing naval duties in Washington have made it impossible for Lieut. Com. and Mrs. McLaughlin to enjoy some Florida sunshine as the guests of John Shepard, Jr., grandfather of Mrs. McLaughlin, at Palm Beach, Florida ... The Shepard home at Palm Beach is one of the show places of that swanky resort ... John Shepard, Jr., remains active in the affairs of the Everglades Club which has its own golf course as well as one of the dining rooms and ball rooms in Florida ... John Shepard's son is head of WNAC.

Baseball Interest High

Washington newspapers are giving banner headlines to the training of Clark Griffith's Senators at Orlando, Fla. ... The Senators, like other major league clubs, have gained much strength with the return of servicemen ... Baseball fans in Washington believe the fight for the American League pennant will be among the Yanks, Red Sox and Tigers.

"How good will Ted Williams be this year?" asked Charley Duffy, managing editor of the It'll be Weston vs. Provincetown tomorrow night in the Class C window opening the program at 8:30 ... Both schools romped through their semi-final tests, the Lawyers dumping Stetson, 38-22, and the Cape Codders slugging Somerset, 52 to 27 ... The victory was the 39th straight for Coach Charlie Law's team ... This meeting should produce a nifty personal duel between Normy Clive of Weston and Bernie Santos.

Basketball won't be the only sport for the fans over the weekend ... There'll be a double-header in hockey tonight at the Arena, featuring the Catholic League All Stars against Mt. St. Charles of Providence ... The track bugs will have the finals in the Reggie meet tomorrow afternoon at the Armory ... And the State Coaches' Ass'n, will have their annual spring meeting at the Hotel Lenox ... There will be clinics for hockey, basketball and track in the morning followed by dinner and speeches

Tech Semifinals Tonight

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Everett High School's basketball team, making its first appearance in the Tech journey, should be awarded a contract to return every season after the thrills it provided the 12,062 fans in jumping into the semi-final round of the Class A competition while soundly removing Haverhill from the running.

Everett, the team that came back to win out in an overtime session (39-29), will face Somerville in the finale of tonight's quartet of games at the Garden.

The remainder of the program should be equally filled with excitement. There'll be twin tests in Class B, pitting Rockland against Braintree and Belmont against Lexington. In the other Class A semi-final, Brockton will pick up against New Bedford, surprise winner over highly-favored Attleboro.

Everett's triumph followed quickly on New Bedford's upset over Attleboro as the No. 1 and 2 seeded teams fell by the wayside. It was a swell show by Everett's Coach Larry Putnam, but a bitter pill for Haverhill's Charlie White whose team had already accepted an invitation to compete in the Eastern States tourney in Glens Falls, New York.

In two weeks, after his team had chalked up 13 straight wins, The Putnam A. C. climbed into a deadlock for the first time in the final three minutes of play and, after falling behind again, it fails" and trying to convince the took a foul shot by Herb Haines to send the contest into overtime. In the first minute of the three-minute extra, Dave DiSessa came through with a swell lay-up as Everett's stalling tactics saved the verdict.

Somerville slipped through to keep alive its title defense with a shot by Capt. Al Perry in the final seconds of play, after a nifty Newton comeback had knotted the count. Perry, the only veteran from last year's champions, was gigantic in the Somerville offense and, as Coach Vin Cronin, said, "watch my team if it gets by Newton."

The Class B pairings will bring together old and familiar rivals. Rockland and Braintree have met twice this season in regularly scheduled games—and surprisingly enough, Rockland has tipped the double defending champions on both occasions. It actually has Coach Bill Erwin mumbled "third time never" and trying to convince the boys that he's right.

Rockland's first triumph over Braintree was by a 43-41 score, but the second was a 43-31 walk-away.

Belmont, knocked off early in the season, has now rung up 11 straight, including a 39-32 over its rival tonight, making this the rubber between the two Middlesex league entries. The Minute Men's margin over Belmont, then in a slump, was only by three points.

The final could be another Belmont-Braintree meeting as in the past two years.

Montgomery Risks Vets' Garden Jinx

NEW YORK, March 8 (INS).—Bob Montgomery will attempt tonight to shatter the jinx that has boxed ex-servicemen at Madison Square Garden.

Champions, fresh out of uniform, have appeared in five Garden bouts. A knockout has resulted every time, with the titleholder on his feet only once at the finish.

Montgomery, lightweight champion in New York State, is taking on Tony Pellone, up-and-coming New York welterweight, in a 10-round non-title go.

GOVERNOR TOBIN PROCLAIMS U. S. ARMY RECRUITING WEEK

THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT
STATE HOUSE, BOSTON

MAURICE J. TOBIN
Governor

PROCLAMATION

Having brought to a victorious conclusion the most widespread and destructive conflict in the history of mankind, America and the other United Nations now face the task of building a new and better world in which international goodwill and cooperation will be the basis of what we hope and pray will be permanent peace.

Against the possibility of any enemy's seeking to destroy that peace, recent vigilance and preparedness must be maintained; otherwise the eternal sacrifice of tens of thousands of American lives may have been in vain, and our children may one day be called upon to face death in defense of our nation's ideals.

There is an unusual and deeply patriotic significance, therefore, in the call for recruits that has been sounded by the Regular Army of the United States. This call is addressed to every American man between the ages of eighteen and thirty-four, and it is intended to be the means of building a protective force adequate to guarantee the preservation of our traditional way of life.

Men of Massachusetts have always been eager to serve their country in peace and in war, and I am confident that our characteristic loyalty to the nation will be evidenced by a gratifying response during a period which I hereby officially recognize, and which I respectfully urge the citizens of the Commonwealth to observe by giving their wholehearted support to this worthy project being sponsored by our military leaders.

UNITED STATES ARMY RECRUITING WEEK

March 4 - 9, 1946

Given at the Executive Chamber in Boston, this twenty-eighth day of February, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and forty-six, and of the Independence of the United States of America, the one hundred and seventieth.

By His Excellency the Governor,
F. W. Cook
Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Plenty of Snow At Ski Centers

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

Although Boston is having an early "preview" of spring, with eager anglers dusting off their tackle, this is not the time for skiers to put away those hickories in mothballs. . . . Plenty of snow remains in northern New England, and shirtsleeve schussing will be the vogue everywhere. . . . Such reliable spots as Cannon Mt., North Conway and Jackson, and Waterville Valley in New Hampshire offer good depths that have a granular or corn surface. . . . Most of the centers in Vermont report fair to good skiing, so thousands of enthusiasts may return with sunbats after this week-end.

At the Belknap Mountains area, Iaconia-Gilford, N. H., all is in readiness for the eastern jumping, cross country, and combined championships, tomorrow and Sunday. The langlauf will be held Saturday afternoon, while scores of America's skiing stars will soar through space on their slats, starting at 2 p. m., on the Sabbath.

Among the little leapers entered are Art Devlin, national amateur champ; Alf Engen, national open title holder; Merrill Barber; Kyrie Tokke, brother of the immortal Torger; Ken Fysh, Don Henderson and Crosby Perry-Smith—forgetting the only woman jumper in the country, Dot Graves.

The 12th annual Appalachian Mountain Club downhill race is set for the precipitous Wildcat Trail in Pinkham Notch, Sunday, where Class A and B runners will battle for top honors, in both individual and team events. . . . There will be two runs, morning and afternoon, and a large field is expected for this classic.

Injury Sends Chapman Home

By HERB FINNEGAN

SARASOTA, Fla., Mar. 8—Three Greater Boston boys came to the Red Sox camp on Feb. 25 with high hopes of landing the third base job left open by the sale of Jim Taber to the Phillies. The triumvirate was composed of Eddie Pellagrini, Ken Chapman and Ty La Forest. Today, less than two weeks after the start of practice, only Pellagrini remained as a serious contender. Chapman, a Mansfield lad, was on his way to Boston to consult Dr. Tommy Richards about an operation on his left knee. La Forest, regular during the last half of the 1945 season, hasn't been seriously considered from the start. In fact outfielder Andy Gilbert has passed him in the race at the far turn. Chapman, a clean-cut lad of 24, suffered a recurrence of an old knee injury in Wednesday's practice game.

"I stepped on the side of first base beating out on infield hit and felt a twinge," he said. "It got worse overnight. I tried to bend in a pepper game with Frankie Pytlak and knew something was seriously wrong. Win Green thinks the cartilage will have to be removed. At any rate, I'm going home and let Dr. Richards advise me."

The knee was puffed as he sat under Green's lamp. Chapman explained: "I first hurt it last summer playing soft ball in the Pacific. Doctors wanted to operate then but the Sox advised me to wait. It didn't hurt all winter, so they thought it best to leave well enough alone. "I can't do myself or the club any good here, so I might as well go home. Babe Dimancheff of the Yanks (grid) was operated on last summer and played in the fall. If I come back as fast as he did I'll be satisfied. I may be playing ball again by the fourth of July." Chapman graduated from Mansfield High in 1939, where he captained the football team the year after Don Curran graduated. He spent three years in the Deep South before reaching Scanton in 1943. There he played in the same infield as Ben Steiner. "I'll be back," he promised. "I can't let my father or Jimmy Kelly down."

Terry Helps Boys Learn to Lose

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 8 (AP).—Bill Terry, who bowed out of baseball three years ago with a blast at the national game, is going to devote his spare hours this spring to teaching his son's prep school team "to take it better than I could."

Terry, a successful Memphis cotton man, will spend his afternoons coaching Christian Brother College, where his son, Ken, is an aspirant for a starting pitcher's berth.

Young Terry is a six-foot basketball center as well as a south-paw hurler.

The former first baseman, who led the Giants to two National League pennants and one world championship, said, "One of my main ideas in getting out with these youngsters is to teach them something I never learned—how to lose as well as win."

"I was considered a poor sport because I always played to win. I want them to learn to play the game for the sport's sake and not just for victories."

"I've got some fine kids out here who should develop into pretty fair ball players. If they want to make career of baseball, I can't think of any other in which they could make so much money right after getting out of school."

Ex-Sailor 1st Entry

For NE Boxing Trials

With it generally accepted that the next boxing champions will come from the armed forces, it was only natural that the first entry received for the N. E. amateur boxing championship which will be held at the Arena, Tuesday, March 19, came from middle-weight Armando Viola of the North End, who was recently released from the Navy.

Lightweight Champ on WCOP Tonight

This lightweight ten-rounder is Montgomery's first Garden stake, returning to civilian life. In Montgomery, Pelonne meets a foxy, seasoned foe who combines durability with sock power and boxing skill. The "Bobcat" always seems to grow stronger as a fight progresses.

Wild Stampede Due In $100,000 Derby

ARCADIA, Cal., March 8 (AP)—One of the greatest stampedes since Sitting Bull's charges is tabbed for tomorrow's $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap. No less than 24 horses were being mentioned as certain starters as trainers went to the entry box today. Unless owners suddenly become wary of putting their money alongside their words, the record of 20 in the 1935 'cap appears a cinch to be beaten. It costs $500 to enter and $500 more to start a steed.

Charles H. Strub, executive vice-president of the track, said that "the field will not be split even 50 horses go to the post and they have to line up behind each other."

But regardless of the ultimate number of starters, the ninth running of the mile and one-quarter handicap, richest race in the world, boils down to three main factors: (1) First Fiddle, (2) Mrs. A. L. Rice's front-running two-some of Sirde and Snow Boots, (3) Somebody Else.

First Fiddle is the probable 5-2 favorite.

Horsemen are agreed that if the slow-starting, top-weighted (126 pounds) First Fiddle is among the first half-dozen horses coming into the stretch, he'll win in a breeze under the masterful goading of Johnny Longden.

There is danger, however, of the Fiddle getting lost in such a mob scene.

In that case, quick starters like Sirde and Snow Boots, holder of the world's record of 1:41 3-5, could win wire-to-wire.

Maine Chance Farm's Knock-

No Threat!

HAVANA, March 8 (AP)—Announcement by free-spending Mexican baseball magnates that they intend luring more players away from organized United States leagues doesn't worry "Happy" Chandler.

Baseball commissioner, here on a visit, said he "may issue a statement after all the facts are in," but emphasized the Mexican matter "is not regarded as a threat to organized baseball."

down, winner of the Santa Anita Derby in at 108 pounds, is another early-foot specialist who might get in front and never be headed.

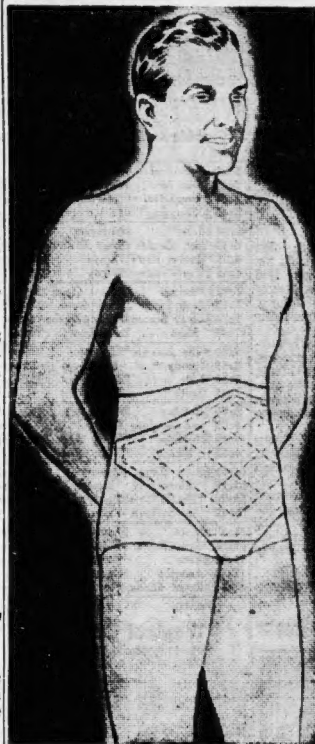

Indians' Lynn Catcher Fails to Shake Injury

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 8 (AP)—Jim Hegan, ex-Coast-guardsmen, suffered a setback in his bid for Cleveland's first string catching assignment when trainers announced it would be at least a week before he recovers full use of his throwing arm.

The Lynn, Mass., player hurt his right shoulder Saturday during a routine workout and the injury has not responded well to treatment.

Bruins' Cup Drive Gets Big Boost

By FRED HOEY

Having recovered from their happy shock over the dashing game played of the Kitchener kids in the 4-2 win over the Red Wings, the faithful Bruin rooters may be served another of Art Ross' surprising dishes at the Toronto game Sunday night at the depot.

Indications point to Bill Cowley centering his old line of Roy Conacher and Gordie Bruce. All three are fast rounding into form.

If Uncle Art should use this line, if only for a brief spell, it would make a bit with the fans. Although the Bruins are battling for a higher place position with every game from here in of a crucial nature, Ross and Coach Dit Clapper will have to be very wary in their use of Cowley and Conacher, two grand scorers.

As this Cowley line squares itself away for the coming play-offs, it becomes increasingly evident that the Bruins are well equipped for the Stanley Cup test. With this line available to spell for the famous Kitchener Line, this observer believes the Bruins stand an excellent chance to go through to win the Stanley Cup.

Two swell lines like this should come pretty close to breeching through the Hawks, Canadiens and Wings. The Kitchener Kids have demonstrated time and again they can take the measure of the much heralded Elmer Lach Canadian line. Then with the Cowley line in reserve, it should come pretty near being duck soup.

The Bruins will apply all the pressure at their command to knock off the Maple Leafs Sunday. This would knock the play-off goose of the Toronto boys.
